Approach to Pest Control: I am an outdoorsman, and I love that being outside is part of my job. Before coming into the industry, I never thought of pest control as an outdoor job. It's interesting that the most effective pest control happens outside, before pests even enter a building. That's what I like to work with my clients on - teaching them about the pests they face and why exclusion is so important. I trap year round, so I enjoy the challenge of identifying and "trapping" a pest in their outdoor habitat.
